NOTE: Dash indicates that release date is unknown. BLS began announcing its scheduled release dates in advance in 1961.

<sup>1</sup> The estimates for December 1995 originally were scheduled for release on Friday, January 5, 1996, but the release was delayed two weeks. The reason for the delay was that many Federal agencies, including BLS and the Bureau of the Census, were closed because their fiscal year appropriations bills had not been passed by Congress and signed by the President.

<sup>2</sup> The estimates for October 1998 originally were scheduled to be released at 8:30 AM EST on Friday, November 6. Some estimates of nonfarm payroll employment inadvertently were released prematurely on the Internet, so the schedule was revised and the Employment Situation report was released officially at 1:30 PM EST on Thursday, November 5.

NOTE: BLS began announcing its scheduled release dates in advance in 1961.

<sup>1</sup> The estimates for November 1995 originally were scheduled for release on Wednesday, December 13, 1996, but the release was delayed one day. The reason for the delay was that many Federal agencies, including BLS and the Bureau of the Census, were closed because their fiscal year appropriations bills had not been passed by Congress and signed by the President.

<sup>2</sup> Due to the furlough and severe weather conditions, the estimates for December 1995, originally scheduled for release on Friday, January 12, 1996 were delayed until February 1.

Likewise, the estimates for January 1996 originally scheduled for release on Friday, February 14, 1996 were delayed until February 28.
